Diversity, Equity & Inclusion
Strategic Plan 2022-2025
From the President

What follows is the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Strategic Plan for Russell Sage College. It is designed to develop “policies and programs to create a campus that supports an optimal learning and working environment for all students, alumnae/i, faculty, administrators and staff,” as articulated in the DEI Vision Statement.

Efforts to foster a welcoming and inclusive culture at Russell Sage have a long history, but this is the first DEI strategic plan. Building an inclusive culture requires an inclusive planning process, and the process used here is a model of broad engagement from multiple constituencies through surveys, focus groups, taskforces, presentations and discussions. The same kinds of engagement will continue as the plan is rolled out and put into action.

Addressing DEI issues is essential to our commitment to ensuring that Russell Sage College is a great place to study, live and work. And it is also central to our commitment to social justice and using education to make the world a better place.

Culture change is difficult by nature, and Russell Sage is not encased in a bubble protecting it from the prejudices and shortcomings of the wider society. In recent years, terms like “unconscious bias” and “systemic racism” have gained wider currency and helped us understand that racism, sexism, homophobia, transphobia, anti-Semitism, Islamophobia and other forms of hatred and discrimination are complexly interwoven with American and global history and our existing societal structures. Addressing that reality has always required extraordinary effort and dedication, and that remains the case today.

Part of the appeal of this plan is that it is designed to give people at Russell Sage the practical tools and forums to have difficult conversations, to uncover and address inequities, to learn together, and to further a more just society.

As with any comprehensive set of strategies, this plan requires resources and considerable work from persons throughout the Sage community. Accountability is built into the plan, with multiple goals and measures over the next three years to ensure our community is kept aware of our progress. At the same time, we know that plans need to remain flexible. As we put elements into action, we may discover that some initiatives are more effectual than others, current events may demand different or additional responses, and so forth. So, as well as evaluating our progress annually, we will also make revisions where needed.

While a DEI plan was envisioned before the November 2020 arrival of Barbara Cockfield as Director of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion, she has shepherded this plan to its conclusion with the support of the DEI Taskforce and the DEI Strategic Planning Committee. While input came from many, many people, the work of the Director, the Taskforce and the Planning Committee successfully turned all that input into a coherent plan that will guide us for the next three years and form the basis of subsequent planning. The DEI vision statement and this plan to reach those aspirations have the full support of the leadership at Russell Sage College. I look forward to the progress we will make together.

Christopher Ames

President, Russell Sage College
From the Director

As I entered the role of Director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion 18 months ago, I recognized the opportunities that could be achieved, but I was equally aware of the challenges that were present and that we would continue to encounter as a result of the growing societal shifts that have often been marked by acute pain and compounded by fatigue among many of our community members. Our lives and work do not occur in isolation; we are part of a global society.

The Office of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion (ODEI) strives to foster the college’s values by serving as a catalyst that integrates diversity, equity and inclusion into everything we do at Russell Sage College (RSC). This ensures that our students are equipped with the skills to thrive and succeed in a global society.

The DEI Task Force and the DEI Strategic Planning Committee, in partnership with the RSC constituents, have gone to great lengths in the past year and a half to ensure that we create a DEI plan that is strategic and unique to the RSC community. We have and continue to hear from countless voices during this process. The contributions of groups and individuals have been essential in helping guide this process. While we are proud of the progress we have made, we also are aware that these efforts are just the beginning and this work belongs to every member of the Russell Sage College Community.

This plan signifies our commitment to continuing to develop a diverse college community while creating an inclusive and equitable campus climate.

I invite the Russell Sage College Community to take into account how our DEI vision statement interconnects with the work that we all carry out. Additionally, consider how the DEI Strategic Plan intersects with your skills and expertise and look for opportunities to partner with students, staff, faculty, alumni and the community at large who are committed to fostering a more just, diverse, inclusive, equitable and accessible Russell Sage College.

Russell Sage College Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Strategic Plan 2022-2025

Introduction

In fall 2020 a Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Task Force was created by Russell Sage College President Christopher Ames, Ph.D., with the assistance of the student government association, the alumni association and the provost. The task force was created as part of the search process for the new Director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion; as a tool for outreach; and as a means of learning about diversity-related issues and pressure points at the college.

With the hiring of the new director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion, one of the first two tasks was to complete a gap analysis and conduct DEI training for the task force. The training was conducted by Mary Bonderoff, Ed.D., then vice president for student affairs and chief diversity officer at SUNY Morrisville. The training — Building an Inclusive Equitable Practice for Russell Sage College — was designed to build a working knowledge of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion at RSC. The goals of the training were to: Understand the benefits of talking about race and other isms (identities); and to understand the challenges and opportunities for Russell Sage College. During the training, the task force conducted a Strength, Weakness, Opportunity and Threat — or SWOT — analysis. The training was also an effort to build a balanced cohesive working relationship within the task force in the area of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion.

Background

From the findings of the gap and SWOT analyses, the four committees of the task force were created.

The Task Force

Encompasses faculty, staff, administrators, undergraduate and graduate students and alumni. It is important that the task force be representative of the RSC community.

The Committees

In addition to task force members, additional members of the RSC community serve on subcommittees. The task force will operate through the following committees, each charged as outlined below:

Heritage Committee

The Heritage Committee will be responsible for collaborating across the college to plan cultural programs and initiatives that celebrate and educate, form community, unite and inspire, and enrich the overall campus experience for students, faculty, staff and alumni, and the community at large.

Heritage months are observed in the United States to recognize the profound and positive influence all Americans have had on our nation. The contributions of all cultural heritages have been woven into the fabric of our nation through perseverance and a commitment through family, faith, strong work ethic and service.
While there are designated heritage month celebrations, we hope to continue to acknowledge the contributions made by all groups of people in the United States throughout the year, not just during the heritage month celebrations.

Advocacy Committee

Advocacy is often thought of as “an act of publicly representing an individual, organization, or idea and used as an umbrella term for many intervention tools.
It can include active lobbying, including methods such as letter writing, meeting politicians, running public forums, questions in legislature and participating in various consultative processes.” (Source: Ruminating.org)
Advocacy can also include service to our community.
The committee can seek to find ways to disrupt patterns in societal behavior that keep underrepresented populations oppressed and move them towards advocacy for themselves and their authentic lifework.

Critical Conversations Committee
Critical Conversations is a continuous, sustained dialogue that examines the current state of affairs and policies in our nation that directly impacts our community. The conversation is a type of protocol to effectively engage, sustain and deepen dialogue surrounding social justice issues. We believe it is necessary to have candid conversations that critically examine the systems that perpetuate injustice. These conversations can promote self-awareness and a better understanding of identity, privilege, oppression and power. Additionally, these conversations can explore root causes and intersecting injustices on the individual, organizational and institutional levels. The Critical Conversation dialogues will be presented in multiple formats, including panel discussions, speakers, moderated conversations and round tables.

Climate Study Committee
The Climate Study Committee’s purpose was to establish Russell Sage College as a welcoming, inclusive, equitable and safe community for all its members. By gathering and analyzing data, we will be able to develop a deeper and more comprehensive understanding of our achievements and challenges to inclusive excellence. Russell Sage College affirms that healthy societies are diverse and inclusive and welcome the creativity of all persons.

Milestones

DEI Strategic Climate Process
The Climate Study Committee was instrumental in creating a roadmap for the climate study process. It was important to have a thorough, robust and well-executed climate study. A Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Climate Assessment is crucial in helping to set data points and having metrics to see where we currently are as an institution, where we need to be, and to create a map for where we are headed. The assessment must include all members of the institution and therefore should assess students, staff, faculty and administration. The assessment must include a DEI survey but should not be limited to only this tool. The assessment should include effective communication through focus groups, the formulation of the survey, administering the survey and strategic planning and interventions.

The purpose of the DEI study was to assess the educational and workplace climate for students, faculty, staff and administration and to affirm Sage’s commitment to a diverse and inclusive climate that welcomes the creativity of all persons.

The study measured perceptions of climate including inclusiveness, sense of belonging, student outcomes, institutional responsiveness, perceptions around diversity and opportunities for academic and career success.

The study has assisted us in developing a Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Strategic Plan to position ourselves for improvement in services, teaching, administration, community relationships and meeting the needs of all students as well as recruiting and retaining students, staff and faculty.

Climate Study Instrument
The Climate Study Committee reviewed the University of Southern California’s Race and Equity Center’s National Assessment of Collegiate Campus Climates; the Higher Education Data Sharing Consortium Diversity and Equity Climate Survey; the Higher Education Research Institute’s Diverse Learning Environments survey for students, staff climate survey, and faculty survey; the Insight Into Diversity’s Viewfinder campus climate surveys; and surveys from Rankin & Associates and the National Institute for Transformation and Equity. The last three were forwarded to the task force’s climate committee because they included surveys for the members of the entire college community, which was one of the goals of the study.

This list of survey instruments was identified by a search process that included: discussing and sharing group knowledge; recounting previous assessment experiences; consulting with higher education colleagues; reviewing literature; keeping in mind the expected administration timeline, projected survey budget, and ability to benchmark. The group also discussed creating and administering a campus-built survey, however, there were concerns about the confidentiality of responses and perceived trust.

The group decided that customizing a preexisting national survey hosted by a third-party vendor would allow greater opportunity to focus campus efforts on planning and implementing a survey outreach and reporting plan to advance RSC’s goals around campus climate.

In the winter of 2020-2021, the DEI Climate Study Committee gave a recommendation report to President Ames who decided to move forward with the National Institute for Transformation and Equity’s Culturally Engaging Campus Environment survey. NITE works with colleges and universities to cultivate culturally-engaging campus environments where diverse students thrive. It aims to create and utilize tools to assist postsecondary institutions in their efforts to examine, understand and improve their campus environments and maximize success among diverse student populations. The institute moves beyond typical climate assessments that tend to focus on challenges in the environment. Instead, the institute focuses on the types of environments that engage and support college students from all backgrounds. It was also decided at this time to utilize a NITE affiliate to conduct the focus groups, Stephen John Quaye, Ph.D., of The Ohio State University.

In spring 2021 and fall 2021, Russell Sage College conducted a Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Campus Climate Study. In preparing the college community for the DEI campus climate study, the staff made announcements at meetings and via campus leaders. (see Appendix A)
The Survey
Appendix A details the locations and the presenters of each announcement. In the spring, the initial emphasis was on the survey, but the focus groups were also announced. Staff shared that the focus groups would be held in the fall and facilitated by Stephen John Quaye of The Ohio State University. The DEI Task Force strategized to speak with targeted, organic groups to share the study and the process for choosing to partner with the National Institute for Transformation and Equity, utilizing its Culturally Engaging Campus Environments survey, and consulting with Stephen John Quaye for the DEI Focus Groups.

The Focus Groups

Summer 2021
During the summer of 2021, the director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion met with all incoming first-year and transfer students during the “Ready” sessions of “Ready. Set. Go!” orientations to assist in acclimating the students to the RSC environment. During these meetings, students learned that RSC would hold DEI focus groups the week of October 4-8, 2021, and although they would have only been in session six weeks, that we would still like to hear from them to ascertain what are we are doing well (classes, programs, co-curricular, extracurricular, etc.), what we should change or not do at all, and lastly, the things they would like to bring or start (aspirations they have for the time at Russell Sage College).

The DEI focus group updates were shared via social media, flyers, email and text messages. Emails went out to students, faculty and staff. The emails were a follow-up to the spring announcements. The Appendices contain examples of the communication that went out collegewide as well as targeted messages to HEOP, CSTEP, athletics, Innovation Coffee Hour, student government and general education classes. Below is a list of all Appendices for all communication.

Results of the Study
On November 17, 2021, Stephen John Quaye presented the findings of the focus groups and submitted his final report. Quaye conducted a presentation for students in the early afternoon followed by a presentation for faculty, staff and trustees later in the afternoon. We received very positive feedback from community members who participated in the focus group presentations, and Quaye’s analysis and recommendations was very useful in our DEI strategic planning process. Over 121 students and 113 employees or trustees attended the presentations.

The Culturally Engaging Campus Environments survey was administered by Russell Sage College via our Anthology platform. We leveraged the consultants at Anthology¹ to analyze the CECE survey. Jennifer Schiller, Ph.D., was the lead on the project. Schiller and her team presented their findings on December 3, 2021, at 11 a.m. for students and on December 8 at 11 a.m. for faculty, staff and board members. The presentations and reports can be found on the employee and student shared drives.

The findings and recommendations from the DEI climate study are the driving force of the DEI strategic plan that has been designed in the spring 2022.

The DEI Strategic Planning Committee

The team had its initial meeting in January of 2022. The team is representative of RSC including administrators, faculty, staff, and students from various areas of the college community. Members of the team leverage their experiences, knowledge, and skills fully in this process. The planning team members were instrumental in obtaining campus buy-in, remaining objective, guiding discussions, being active participants, and seeking feedback throughout the process.

The DEI Strategic Planning Process
The DEI Strategic Planning Committee held thirteen (13) DEI institutional assessment and goal setting sessions based on the findings and recommendations from the climate study with nearly 200+ people from our community to hear about their perspectives and experiences that will help ensure the plan created is meeting the needs of all RSC constituents.

The Institutional Assessment
Members of the Strategic Planning Committee met with departments across the RSC community. During these meetings we will reflect on the organization’s current strengths, challenges, opportunities, and needs in relation to diversity, equity, and inclusion, issues, as well as the data collection tools. We reviewed the findings and recommendations from the study and ascertain gaps that affect our ability to be most effective in these areas through a series of institutional and self-assessments.

We used a DEI Phase model and reviewed the phases and identify where each session believed we were as an institution within the evolution of DEI (see the model appendix G). The self-assessment inquired about what things might I be able to advance in my personal sphere of responsibility and influence; what resources might I be able to commit to addressing long-standing challenges (e.g. recruitment, curriculum, accessibility).

The institutional inquiry (based on the evolution of DEI) was where on the continuum would you place Russell Sage College with the follow-up question being to make a list of the characteristics you would identify as consistent with where RSC might be based on where we placed ourselves on the continuum.

Using the data (relevant factors) we posed the following questions to create SMART goals.

What are actionable steps we can take to move to the next stage of DEI development within our organization? We reviewed the findings and recommendations from the DEI Climate Study and begin to chart realistic and achievable goals for Russell Sage College.
The Russell Sage College Plan

The Russell Sage College Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Strategic Plan is guided by our five DEI priorities. These overarching priorities emerged from our Diversity, Equity & Inclusion study in 2021 and aligned with our DEI vision statement and our institutional goals.

Vision Statement
Russell Sage College embraces diversity, equity and inclusion as essential components of a rich intellectual and cultural environment in which all members are given the opportunity to reach their full potential as active participants in our local and global society. We realize that the work of diversity, equity and inclusion is an evolution that moves us toward our aspirations of a culturally inclusive community. The understanding we gain, as we continually assess our institution, will create informed and intentional transformation.

Russell Sage College is committed to developing policies and programs to create a campus that supports an optimal learning and working environment for all students, alumnae/i, faculty, administrators and staff. Our DEI vision statement is our commitment and aspiration to a more just and equitable community for all RSC constituents. The Russell Sage College Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Strategic Plan will be our protocol to achieve this.

Priorities
1. Growing our leadership on inclusive teaching and scholarship in relation to Equity, Inclusion and Diversity:
   - Implement Universal Design for Learning throughout campus.
   - Promote inclusive teaching through professional development.
   - Increase use of DEI best practices.
   - In partnership with the Office of the Provost, create the position of a Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Faculty Fellow.

2. Increasing access and success for underrepresented and marginalized populations:
   - Implement customized training for key staff and faculty populations.
   - Educate all community members about the values and strengths of underrepresented and marginalized students.

3. Continuously build upon a campus climate where everyone feels welcome, supported, included and valued:
   - Create an institution of belonging.
   - Coordinate DEI reporting across RSC.
   - Provide a wide range of DEI learning opportunities.

4. Attract, recruit, support and develop a diverse community:
   - Increase retention of underrepresented students by 1-3% in three years.
   - Create equitable hiring practices that increase staff and faculty diversity.

5. Develop an institutional infrastructure to drive change:
   - Identify and distribute new and existing funding.
   - Develop a Center for Diversity on both campuses (i.e., staff both campuses).
   - Enhance accessibility and inclusive spaces.

Measurements and Accountability
We will hold ourselves accountable for progress through the following kinds of measurements:
• Completion of given initiatives in particular plan years 1, 2, and 3 with targets as necessary. Some strategies involve creating a program or workshop or conducting training. Metrics will identify the target years for implementation.
• Workshops and training aimed at large populations (all students, all faculty, all staff, etc.) will be ongoing because of the regular arrival of new students and faculty and staff turnover. Diversity, equity and inclusion is ever-evolving and fluid training at planned intervals will allow for the RSC community to remain apprised and relevant within our interactions, classrooms and programming. Monitoring reasonable targets on an annual basis is built into the plan metrics.
• Initiatives that involve participatory programs allow for the collection of programmatic evaluations and surveys. These will be used for improving the quality of offerings but also aggregated on an annual basis with a target of 70% representing high satisfaction (scores of 4 or 5).
• We will also use the following tools that have been developed and used in the past year: the Baseline Student Satisfaction Survey for students; Beacon Belongingness and Inclusion Index Survey; the University of California, Berkeley’s Strategic Planning for Equity, Inclusion and Diversity toolkit for faculty; and the Phases of DEI for faculty and staff.
• The broader goals of increasing the sense of belonging, culturally relevant and responsive pedagogy, institutional diversity, engagement with diversity, cultural community service, and achieving the aspirations of the DEI Vision Statement are much harder to quantify. Administering the CECE survey again in the second semester of the 2024-2025 academic year provides an opportunity to see if these wide-ranging initiatives are reflected in better levels of satisfaction, especially among underrepresented and marginalized groups.
• The DEI annual report will allow us to track the status and assessment of the strategies using the measurements indicated in the strategic plan.

²The Culturally Relevant & Culturally Responsive Pedagogy module is a student only module
Priority 1. Growing our leadership on inclusive teaching and scholarship in relation to Equity, Inclusion and Diversity.

Goal 1
Prioritize equitable and inclusive teaching practices by implementing Universal Design for Learning³ throughout the physical campus, in documents and online, particularly as it affects coursework, syllabi design and teaching modalities whenever appropriate to improve accessibility for all learners.

Strategy 1
In cooperation with the Center for Teaching and Learning, library staff, provost’s office and other relevant faculty committees, develop and identify appropriate UDL resources for faculty development. Offer introductory UDL training and encourage all instructors to attend by the end of year two.

Measure
Year 1: In cooperation with CTL, library staff, provost’s office and other relevant faculty committees, develop and identify appropriate UDL resources for faculty development.
Year 2: 45% of full-time faculty attend professional development by the end of Year 2 (May College, J-College and/or Opening Day).
Year 3: 65% of full-time faculty will attend professional development by the end of Year 3.* Department chairs will encourage faculty to review and update syllabi in alignment with UDL. Measured by an increase of .25% on the Culturally Relevant & Responsive Pedagogy module of the CECE survey.

Goal 2
Promote and support inclusive teaching, scholarship and professional faculty development.
Strategy 1: Provide faculty with best practice examples of DEI goals, workshops and resources to encourage DEI goals in the professional development plan and, in cooperation with the provost’s office and relevant committees, consider adding DEI goals around scholarship, teaching and service to annual professional development plan.

Measure
Year 1: In cooperation with CTL, the deans, and relevant committees, communicate best practices and resources via newsletters, training, meetings, etc.
Year 2: Faculty are encouraged to create professional development plan DEI goals.
Year 3: Faculty are encouraged to create professional development plan DEI goals. Measured by an increase of .25% on the Culturally Relevant & Responsive Pedagogy module of the CECE survey.

Measure

³Universal design for learning (UDL) is a teaching approach that works to accommodate the needs and abilities of all learners and eliminates unnecessary hurdles in the learning process. This means developing a flexible learning environment in which information is presented in multiple ways, students engage in learning in a variety of ways, and students are provided options when demonstrating their learning.

Timeline

November 2020 – Director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion begins.

November 2020 – DEI task force has its first meeting.

December 2020 – DEI task force committees are created by means of feedback from meetings with cabinet members, administrators and members of segments of RSC.

January 2021 – Task force has initial training with Mary Bonderoff, Ed.D. During the training, the task force completes a SWOT analysis.

December 2020-February 2021 – The DEI Climate Study Committee reviews a number of instruments for the study and forwards three to President Ames because they included surveys for the members of the entire college community, which was one of the goals of the study. This list of survey instruments was identified by a search process that included: discussing and sharing group knowledge; recounting previous assessment experiences; consulting with higher education colleagues; reviewing the literature; and keeping in mind the expected administration timeline, projected survey budget, and ability to benchmark. The group also discussed creating and administering a campus-built survey, however, there were concerns about the confidentiality of responses and perceived trust. The group came to the decision that customizing a preexisting national survey, hosted by a third-party vendor, would allow greater opportunity to focus campus efforts on planning and implementing a survey outreach and reporting plan to advance RSC’s goals around campus climate.

February 2021 – President Ames chooses the National Institute on Transformation and Equity’s Culturally Engaging Campus Environment Survey from the recommendations submitted by the DEI Climate Study Committee.

March 2021 – Finalized contract for Culturally Engaging Campus Environment Survey. Retained the National Institute on Transformation and Equity’s affiliate Stephen John Quaye, Ph.D., of The Ohio State University as the facilitator of our focus groups.

April 2021 – Culturally Engaging Campus Environ-
Surveys are administered to undergraduate and graduate students, staff and faculty.

May 2021 – Survey closes.

August 2021 – We contract with Anthology to analyze the survey data and complete a report.

October 2021 – Stephen John Quaye conducts focus groups for undergraduate and graduate students, staff and faculty in person on both campuses of Russell Sage College. In the last week of October Quaye conducts virtual focus groups for those who cannot attend in person.

November 2021 – Stephen John Quaye submits the focus group report with findings and recommendations. Quaye also facilitates a presentation of the findings for students, and another for all employees and board of trustee members. The report and recording of the presentations are uploaded to the employee shared drive, the student shared drive, and the trustees Moodle page.

December 2021 – Jennifer Schiller, Ph.D., of Anthology, presents her team’s findings and recommendations after their analysis of the survey data. They hold one presentation for students and another for all employees. The recordings of the presentations are uploaded to the employee shared drive, the student shared drive and the trustees Moodle page.

January 2022 – Jennifer Schiller delivers the final report of the findings and recommendations from the CECE survey. The reports are uploaded to the employee shared drive, the student shared drive, and the trustees Moodle page.

January 2022 – The DEI Strategic Plan Committee is formalized and the process for the plan begins. The chair of the planning committee and the Director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion give an overview of the process at J-College.

February-March 2022 – The Strategic Plan committee meets to strategize on the process for conducting the institutional assessment as well as the goal creation sessions.

March-April 2022 – The Strategic Plan committee conducts 13 sessions with over 200 participants, including students, staff, and faculty, to create specific, measurable, achievable, relevant and time-bound — or SMART — goals for the DEI strategic plan.

April-May 2022 – The draft of the DEI strategic plan is created.

May 2022 – The draft of the DEI strategic plan is shared at May College.

May 2022 – The draft of the DEI strategic plan is shared to the Student Success and Community Wellbeing (S2CWB)

June 2022 – The final DEI strategic plan is shared with the Russell Sage College Board of Trustees.

Good Morning Russell Sage Community!

The DEI task force began a climate study earlier this year. We were able to collect valuable data from students, faculty, and staff that will help inform who we are as an institution and lay the groundwork for us to ensure inclusivity is front and center in all areas of the college and felt by every member of our community.

Continuing the work of the climate study, Dr. Stephen Quaye will hold focus groups and conversations with students, faculty, and staff members the week of October 4. He will speak with us and provide an opportunity to share our feelings, experiences, and sentiments in a nonjudgmental, safe space to better understand the climate of Russell Sage College.

The information gathered will help RSC create a plan that strives to meet our DEI vision statement to embrace diversity, equity, and inclusion as essential components of a rich intellectual and cultural environment in which all members are given the opportunity to reach their full potential as active participants in our local and global society.

Next week you will receive an email with details to sign up for upcoming focus groups. Thanks so much!

The Climate Study Subcommittee

Allison Coleman, Barbara Cockfield, Doug Gruse, Dan Hulseapple, Stacie Kutz, Erica Li, Geoff Miller, Emilly Obuya, and Jamal Sanders
Greetings RSC Faculty and Staff,

We would like to invite you to take part in our Diversity, Equity & Inclusion (DEI) focus group the week of October 4-8, 2021 regarding the climate of Russell Sage College (RSC). Climate is the current attitudes, behaviors, standards, and practices of employees and students of an institution. The focus groups will be a continuation of our climate study of RSC that began last spring.

A DEI Climate Assessment is crucial in helping to set data points and having metrics to see where we currently are as an institution, where we need to be and to create a road map for where we are going.

The purpose of this study is to assess the educational and workplace climate for students, faculty, staff, and administration and to affirm Sage’s commitment to a diverse and inclusive climate that welcomes the creativity of all persons. The study will measure perceptions of climate including inclusiveness, sense of belonging, student outcomes, institutional responsiveness, perceptions around diversity, and opportunities for academic and career success.

The focus group should last no longer than 40-50 minutes. The focus groups will provide an opportunity for you to confidentially and safely share your sense of belonging and other DEI perceptions. The sign-up sheets will not be shared with anyone. There will also be snacks! Once the reports have been completed, we will have community presentations to share the findings. If you would like to take part in the focus group, please let us know by clicking on the: Faculty link or Staff link and choosing a focus group block. Please choose up to 3 times on the form, and we will let you know which one you are scheduled for. You will receive your confirmed focus group time on Friday, Oct. 1.

Best Regards,
Climate Study Committee

Appendix G: Evolution of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Phases (Evolution of DEI)

Emerging – Compliance Based
- At the very beginning of the DEI journey, perhaps prompted by a crisis event or a desire to offer an advantage at your institution.
- Minimal DEI infrastructure and not on the radar of senior/executive leadership.
- Can describe some DEI concepts.
- Demonstrates a willingness to continuously increase DEI knowledge and cross-cultural awareness.

Growing – Programmatic DEI
- DEI discussion has emerged as a priority of senior/executive leadership, but no framework or agenda yet.
- Leadership is close to providing financial support to build capacity.
- Diversity may be mentioned in the strategic plan.
- Diversity strategies exist, but there is no intentional DEI direction.
- Assimilation describes DEI concepts.
- Diversity Office or DEI are perceived as “Owning” DEI.
- Regularly participates in DEI-related professional development opportunities.

Transforming – Leader Owned (departments and divisions)
- DEI has emerged as a clear priority and there have been a number of statements.
- There is a general awareness of the diversity issues and initiatives, gender equity for historically underrepresented and marginalized populations.
- Leaders at all levels discuss overall DEI goals and outcomes.
- DEI is broad and includes Affirmative Action (AA), Equity, Antiracism, Intersectionality, and focuses on teaching and learning, but progress is uneven, and accountability is lacking.
- Organizations may cycle in this stage for years.

Inclusive Excellence - Inclusive Culture
- DE is realized when a community draws on the widest possible pool of talent to summit excellence and diversity.
- The organization fully embraces individuals from varied backgrounds, cultures, races, identities, life experiences, perspectives, beliefs, and values.
- Constituents hold themselves and others accountable for improvement with regard to DEI initiatives.
- All constituents own DEI.
- DEI Strategies are integrated into every operation of the institution (business, student life, admissions, academics, dining, security, IT, etc.) with measurable outcomes.
